HONITON maternity unit campaigners have been celebrating this week after NHS Devon performed a U-turn and will now be allowing mums to stay at the unit overnight.

The decision was made during an NHS Devon board meeting on Wednesday last and the Honiton Maternity Matters group are calling it a 'victory for people power'.

NHS Devon had wanted to stop overnight stays at the unit.

However, after more than eight months of campaigning that proposal has been scrapped and now mothers will be able to stay overnight if a midwife feels they need more help.

During the campaign public meetings were held, demonstrations took place and an online petition was set up which attracted thousands of signatures.

Campaigners peace pole on UN day

By BEN MIDDLETON
ben@tindlenews.co.uk

PEACE campaigners in Honiton have celebrated United Nations Day by putting up a peace pole in the town.

United Nations Day was held on Sunday, October 24th, and marks the formation of the United Nations Charter.

Retired Methodist minister Merfyn Temple was the man behind the Honiton celebrations and speaking to Pulman's View he said: "There are thousands of Peace Poles throughout the world but to my knowledge this is the only one in the westcountry. People need to be able to work for peace — at a very basic level to be able to recognise and greet one another in the streets and market places of the world."

"What we have done is a small step but a significant one for world peace."

The event was held at Honiton Baptist Church and more than 60 people attended including Noel Harrower, the chair of the Exeter and District branch of the United Nations Association.

Council yes to allotments

A PLAN to create 46 allotments in an area of Honiton has been given the go-ahead by East Devon District Council (EDDC).

As previously reported in Pulman's View, the application was put forward by Honiton Town Council which wants to create the allotments at land north of Battishorne Way — close to Honiton Bottom Road.

Dozens of people had objected to the development with many claiming a loss of green space, an increase in traffic and unsafe pedestrian access.

However, the plan has been approved subject to a number of conditions and work at the site is expected to begin in the near future.

Talk at RBL

A TALK entitled 'Who was Charles Rennie Mackintosh?' will be held by the Honiton University of the Third Age club on Wednesday, November 17th.

It will be hosted by Albert Kirkham and will take place at the Royal British Legion Hall on Dowell Street from 2.15pm.

For more information contact 01404 823160 or visit www.u3asites.org.uk/eastdevon.

New guide group open in village for young Rainbows

A NEW Honiton Rainbow Guides group has just opened its doors.

On Friday, October 15th, the new group met at its base in Feniton when 10 five and six-year-olds made their Rainbow Guide promise and received their Rainbow badge.

Speaking to Pulman's View Sue Kiddle, Honiton district commissioner, said: "With the opening of a further Brownie unit next month, we are happy to say guiding at all levels in the Honiton District is thriving and expanding."

"We are lucky to have keen volunteers to train as leaders for all our Guide, Brownie and Rainbow units, but this expansion has led to a need for non-uniform helpers to assist these leaders on a regular basis. This does not have to be every week."

Anyone interested in volunteering with the group should contact Sue Kiddle on 01404 44694 or via email on suekiddle@btinternet.com.

£25k bid as park project survives spending cut axe

By BEN MIDDLETON
ben@tindlenews.co.uk

A PLAY park project in West Hill that was under threat as a result of the government spending review has survived the axe and £25,000 of funding will now be put forward.

The scheme had been organised by Devon County Council (DCC) in partnership with voluntary organisations and parish, town and district councils across the county.

Earlier this year the government said the 14 schemes that had not started, including the West Hill project, should be put on hold.

Andrea Davis, DCC cabinet member for children's health and wellbeing, had been lobbying the government to ensure the West Hill project and others across Devon were awarded the funding.

Mrs Davis said: "I am absolutely delighted that our lobbying has paid off. These are vital schemes that rely on the county council working in partnership with our communities, voluntary organisations and local councils."

"I believe it is extremely important that children and their families have safe, free local places to play. And I am very happy that my colleagues on DCC have agreed to make up the shortfall so that all these schemes that have been painstakingly worked out with local people can go ahead."

"I am writing to all the organisations to give them the good news and to thank them for their patience and all the hard work they have put in to make these projects happen."

John Hart, county council leader, added: "I am delighted that the lobbying by Andrea Davis and the local people involved in all these schemes had such a successful outcome."

EDDC invitation for wannabe councillors to role workshops

WANNABE councillors have been invited to workshops and information sessions at East District Council (EDDC) headquarters in Sidmouth.

With local elections coming up next year, those wishing to stand for parish, town or district councils are invited to an event on Tuesday, November 9th from 2.30pm to 5.30pm or from 7pm to 8.30pm.

An EDDC spokesperson said: "Councillors and officers will be on hand to tell you what it means to be a local councillor and how you can make a difference.

"They will talk about the services that EDDC provides and how councillors get involved in making decisions that affect everyone in their community, from bin collections to planning applications.

"It is a very varied and important role."

MATERNITY

Power of the people as

By BEN MIDDLETON

ben@tindlenews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS in Honiton and Ottery St Mary are claiming a 'victory for people power' as NHS Devon confirms that it will reinstate overnight stays at Honiton maternity unit for new mums.

NHS Devon board members met in Tavistock on Wednesday last to discuss the future of midwifery services across east and mid Devon and during this meeting NHS officials recommended that women who are clinically fit for discharge after giving birth, will now be able to stay overnight if a midwife feels they need more help.

For the past eight months campaigners had been fighting the health authority's proposals to change the way the maternity unit operates.

During the campaign public meetings were held, demonstrations took place and an online petition was set up which attracted thousands of signatures.

Speaking to Pulman's View about the outcome of the meeting Jayne Carroll, director of strategic commissioning for NHS Devon, said: "We are very pleased that the recommendations made to the board have been approved.

"We have been able to balance the clinical advice and national evidence with the views of local people, to provide an adapted proposal we have confidence in.

"We've worked closely with GPs on our clinical commissioning executive committee, the Devon community services liaison committee and the Devon County Council health and overview scrutiny committee, to come to an agreed way forward.

"From the outset we have said that we wanted to listen to parents and parents to be and take account of their suggestions and concerns. I think that we have demonstrated that we've done just that.

"We have undertaken to develop a stakeholder group so that local people are still involved and can contribute to the development of the implementation plan, and we will continue to work closely with colleagues at the Royal Devon and Exeter Hospital to agree governance procedures."

Peter Fleming, mayor of Honiton, said he was pleased with the decision and praised the midwives at Honiton hospital.

"The decision [by NHS Devon] was almost 100 per cent what people wanted and I think it is brilliant news for the town.

"It gives peace of mind for those mums who are expecting, especially if you are a first-time mum.

"The midwives at Honiton give a brilliant service and I am glad that the service can continue."

Claire Wright, Ottery St Mary town councillor for West Hill and maternity campaigner, said: "It is absolutely fantastic news that the NHS has listened to local families who have sent so many letters and emails about the huge value of this service — widely reported to be the gold standard.

"It is a wonderful victory for people power."

Retired Ottery GP and maternity unit campaigner, Dr John Ackroyd, added: "As ever, the devil is in the detail of course and we are waiting to hear more about the criteria that will be used by midwives to assess mums. We would of course, be very happy to work with NHS Devon on preparing this.

"This decision is an inspiring sign that if you are determined enough to change something, you can. It has been hard work, but worth every minute to know that local families will now benefit from a service that is so important to them."

Evictions: council boots out tenants for contract breach

FOUR tenants in Honiton and Ottery St Mary have been evicted from their homes by East Devon District Council (EDDC) after consistently failing to pay their rent.

In a separate case a Sidmouth tenant was evicted recently for allowing her garden to become overgrown.

Jill Elson, EDDC's portfolio holder for communities, said: "Our message to tenants is clear. Please remember that a house with a garden needs looking after, and it is your responsibility to do that to an acceptable standard.

"And to those tenants who consistently fail to pay their rent, we would say please speak to us — our officers are always there to give advice — and stick to your repayment plans. No council likes to evict its tenants, but if they are in breach of their tenancy agreement, this can result in legal action being taken against them.

"There are plenty of people waiting for a council home who would be happy to keep to their tenancy agreement."

Pub to open doors again

CASTLE Inn, Axminster, is likely to reopen by the end of this week.

As reported last week, the pub has been closed since former landlord Dan Eccleston threw a farewell party for regulars on Monday, October 18th.

But a spokesperson from Punch Taverns said on Monday: "We are pleased to confirm that we have found a new operator for the Castle Inn, with plans to re-open the pub by the end of the week."

FABULOUS CARNIVAL AHEAD OF BARRELS

Rain doesn't spoil fun

By BEN MIDDLETON
ben@tindlenews.co.uk

DESPITE the threat of wet weather the crowds turned out in force to witness this years Ottery St Mary carnival.

Hundreds of people lined the streets as the procession made its way through the town and onlookers have described the event as fantastic.

Phylis Baxter, of Ottery Tourist Information Centre (TIC), said: "It was an absolutely fabulous carnival and I thoroughly enjoyed it, it was brilliant."

"The carnival committee have worked so hard to produce such a wonderful event."

"The crowds were good and it seemed pretty busy in town and I think everyone enjoyed themselves. "Even though we had a small drop of rain that didn't seem to put people off from coming.

"Now we are getting ready for tar barrels which is coming up and we have the programmes in stock at the TIC office."

The carnival is followed next weekend by the world famous Ottery Tar Barrels — traditionally held every year on November 5th.

Organisers hope that this year's tar barrels will go-ahead trouble free following an explosion last year.

Daniel Rowland, son of organiser Graham, said: "We have taken extra precaution this year by putting chicken wire meshing on the end of the barrels so nothing can be thrown inside like last year."

November is Pet Diabetes Month!

Pet Diabetes Month (November) is a new nationwide screening campaign to test the UK's cats and dogs for diabetes. Diabetes is increasingly common in dogs over 5 years of age, cats over 8 years, overweight pets and certain breeds. Luckily, diabetes can usually be easily diagnosed using a simple urine test. The Great Pet 'Pee' Test is a national initiative to test at-risk pets for diabetes.

Early diagnosis is Vital

Like all illnesses, the earlier the problem is diagnosed and treated, the better. Unfortunately, your pet can't tell you how they're feeling. However, diabetic pets often have one or more tell-tale signs to keep an eye out for like:

- Excessive thirst
- Frequent urination
- Weight loss despite constant hunger
- Lethargy

Join the Great Pet 'Pee' test!

We are offering a Free Urine Glucose test strip to our clients who may suspect their cat or dog may have diabetes.

Call into the surgery or book an appointment with the vet if you wish to discuss anything in more detail.

Treatment for two after A358 accident

TWO people were taken to hospital after an accident on the A358 at Tytherleigh on Saturday, October 30th.

Rescue services were alerted at about 11.10am and a spokesperson for the fire and rescue service said: "Two appliances from Axminster and Colyton were mobilised to a road traffic collision involving one private car and one fuel tanker.

"Upon arrival crews found two elderly people trapped in the private car and used hydraulic cutting equipment to free them. The casualties were taken to hospital via land and air ambulances. Crews made the vehicles safe."

Table top sale for church

A CHRISTMAS table top sale is set to be held at Musbury Village Hall on Saturday, November 27th, with money raised going to church funds.

The event will run from 11am until 1.30pm and church officials are hoping as many people as possible will attend.

Kay Short, secretary at the church, said: "Musbury church is really struggling to find enough money, just to cover the cost of every day running and maintenance."

"We only have about 40 people on the electoral roll and only half of those come to church regularly. Several people in the village are now not well enough or mobile enough to attend church.

"We had a lot of expense to repair the church tower and all the village helped us to raise our part of the cost, for which we are grateful. In September, we had a very successful silent auction which raised over £800 which was fantastic."

Tables cost £6 and for more information contact 01297 552711 or email shortatbeacon@lineone.net.

No stopping Jed after a slow start

By ANDERS LARSSON

anders@tindlenews.co.uk

JED Holmes needed less than eight months to read 100 books as part of Axminster Library's Booktrack scheme.

He started on February 9th and finished off the 100th book on October 4th.

He visited the library on Tuesday, October 12th to be presented with a certificate and a badge, plus other rewards.

He would have finished even earlier if it hadn't been for a slow start.

Jed said: "It took a while to get the hang of finding books I enjoyed."

Two days later the library welcomed two more youngsters who had completed 100 books.

Noah Remington, All Saints, and Bethany Watson, of Axminster, also received the same reward package consisting of a certificate, a badge and vouchers for Archway Bookshop, Pecorama, Flamingo Pool and Escot.

More information about Booktrack is available from the library.

Family wedding

AN Axminster couple got married in Somerset Register Office in Taunton on Thursday, October 14th.

Peter Mills, who hails from Glastonbury, and Natalie Whitley, who hails from Beer, tied the knot in Tudor Hall.

Their children — Hannah, four, and Harry, four months — were present and a reception followed at The Lordleaze Hotel in Chard.

Proud of our campaigners

YOU don't have to be a mother — or a father for that matter — to realise NHS Devon's board of directors have just made an excellent decision to keep the maternity unit at Honiton open for overnight stays.

After an eight-month battle, campaigners have fought long and hard after NHS Devon proposed to change the way the hospital's maternity unit operates. And now they are celebrating.

New mums — as long as they are fit for discharge — will now be able to stay at Honiton Hospital overnight with their newborns if their midwife feels it necessary or that they need more help.

Although I haven't experienced this system, known locally as The Honiton Hilton, I can honestly say I know a lot of families who have and I haven't heard a bad thing said.

My own sister gave birth to my smallest nephew there and was cared for and helped for a few days after and my sub-editor, Lucie, also experienced the benefit of the staff's help after her son was born in Exeter.

Most women I have spoken to who have stayed at Honiton as new mums have said the care and help is invaluable and, to think such a valuable service for the community could have been lost is frightening.

We must heap praise on those who have campaigned and kept going through the tough fight for this outcome.

There have been numerous meetings, a very successful online petition, demonstrations, a Facebook page plus the huge amount of paperwork that goes with such a project.

The people behind it deserve a massive thank you from the community, especially from future families who may be the ones who will benefit from all their hard graft in months and years to come.

Described as a 'victory for people power', that is just what it is. It's a fantastic result to prove that, even in smaller communities, the power of the public is still worth something and we can alter plans or proposals made by the Powers That Be if needed.

Those campaigners have won their battle and we should be very proud of them for securing the future of this amazing service.

■ I can't go without mentioning this week's massive issue of the paper with its new-look Leisure Review section.

You may need to rest it on the table as you read this newspaper as it's probably dreadfully heavy with its 80 pages this week.

In a time when local and regional newspapers are hitting an all-time low and are being closed left, right and centre, I am extremely proud to be part of a paper which, not only is successful but is growing as well.

We have launched a new Leisure Review section this week, packed full of great lifestyle features, we have added more news pages so that we can report on even more local information and current affairs, we have the recently improved six-page sports section.

And that's on top of all the great content we always provide — the high standard of up-to-the-minute news from your areas and our popular features, including this column of course!

And it's all for free, every week. I'm not going to lie to you, it's not an easy task, but your Pulman's View team are a dedicated, professional bunch who want — and are proud — to bring you, our readers, the very best. Enjoy.

Vote now to get quicker internet

EDITOR — You may have seen BT's advertising for superfast broadband delivered via their new fibre optic network.

What you may not be aware of is that the private company, BT, which owns the UK telephone infrastructure, is currently only delivering this new service to big towns and cities where it can make a handsome profit from it.

Small exchanges such as Churchstanton, with less than 1,000 telephone subscribers, are excluded from consideration for fibre optic broadband.

One exception to this is Cornwall, which is getting £53 million of funding from the European Union — which in turn comes partly out of the tax you pay — to provide fibre optic broadband to 90 per cent of all residents in Cornwall.

In a strange marketing campaign however, BT are requiring people in all parts of the country to ask for their exchange to be enabled for fibre optic broadband by voting on the <http://www.racetoinfinity.bt.com> website.

When the website opens, do not enter your postcode on the first page, but click on skip to map and then click on the vote now button and answer the simple questions asked.

The interesting thing about this marketing gimmick is that BT also say that if 75 per cent of all residents that use a telephone exchange make the request before December 31st 2010, then BT will "engage with the community to see what can be done."

My exchange, Churchstanton, has 464 telephone subscribers, of whom two people — one of which is me — have expressed an interest in fibre optic broadband since the website went live last week.

But if 348 telephone subscribers on the Churchstanton exchange register their interest by December 31st then BT will be obliged to explore the possibility of fibre optic broadband on the Churchstanton exchange.

Other areas such as Ottery St Mary have already started a campaign to get subscribers signed up — see Pulman's View edition in Honiton on October 12th.

There is no reason why Churchstanton and other exchanges in Pulman's country should not do the same.

You do not have to already have a broadband service to sign up and express your interest — all voice telephone users, irrespective of who supplies the service, are eligible, so please pass this information on to anyone who has a land line telephone and if your friends do not already have broadband, you can put their telephone number and postcode into the website for them.

After you put your telephone number into the website it will show you what exchange you are on and how many people have registered an interest in fibre optic broadband for your exchange.

Good luck.

A flood risk area for Tesco's store

EDITOR — I enclose a photograph of the Seaton Holiday Camp when it was Warners. The photograph shows the floodwaters which cover the camp.

So, Tesco is going to raise the ground level to stop this happening.

As I have said before, the flood water would then channel round the site and Harbour Road being the lower ground in the area would take the force of the flood and as the proposed vehicle entrance to Tesco carpark and service station is going to be in Harbour Road how is the traffic to get on site in case of a flood?

Vic Raskin
Seaton

If you care make it known

EDITOR — I would like to congratulate John Watkins on his excellent letter about EDDC and the Cloakham Lawn planning application which appeared in Pulman's View on October 5th.

I agree entirely with his views and concerns.

I believe the recent approval of outline planning permission for the site at Cloakham Lawns in the face of opposition from local residents, against the recommendation of the town council and contrary to the recommendation of its own Sustainability Appraisal calls into question the integrity of EDDC's development management committee.

This week sees the emergence of an action group called Save Our Parkland. I will support this group and would encourage others to do the same.

Like John Watkins I would urge everyone who cares about Axminster to make your views known both to EDDC and your MP. EDDC should not be allowed to disregard the views and opinions of local people.

Reconsider council urge

EDITOR — With regard to the proposed building of 400 houses at Cloakham Lawn by Axminster Carpets.

I live at Smallridge and although I shan't be able to see the houses from where I live it's going to make a big difference for us when driving to Axminster with the volume of the extra traffic joining the A358.

Also where are all these extra cars going to park at Axminster. I have a parking permit and even now I find it a problem trying to park in Axminster.

If anyone mentions more car parks, where? Axminster hasn't got anymore room for car parks and we don't want anymore green fields covered in tarmac. Also where will the children go to school and I'm sure the surgery and hospital won't be large enough.

Think again East Devon District Council.

Thanks for stroke help

EDITOR — I would like to express my gratitude to the very kind person who came to my assistance when I suffered a stroke in my car in Tesco's carpark, Honiton, on September 20th this year.

You drove me in my car to Honiton Hospital and from there I was taken to the stroke unit in Wonford.

I was discharged on September 24th and am slowly recovering.

Consultation on the future

EDITOR — Consultation on Axminster's Future.

We have to start by being very cynical because the present planning policy has a year to run and district councillors have yet to vote for a change.

But the Development Management Committee has given permission outside the Axminster development line.

Do not rule out the north/south bypass which should be built over a series of years with the route planned now on low grade land.

The Wain Homes buildings have only one entrance/exit and this should be taken into consideration because in bad winters residents will be trapped in their homes.

We do not want anymore three storey accommodation in our rural countryside.

The infra-structure of Axminster has to be planned before more units of accommodation are put up, for example the surgery, dentists and facilities for young and old.

Heavy lorries must be taken out of the centre of Axminster.

When assessing the views note should be taken of what interest the contributors have to developers e.g. are they connected to any developers. I well remember the last consultation that we had replies from people who lived in south Somerset, west Dorset and Exeter.

Greater care must be taken on filing the replies.

At this time Axminster people do not trust East Devon District Council.

*Cllr Douglas Hull
Axminster*

Speak up, Seaton voices, with ideas

EDITOR — Over the last few weeks I have been interested to note the various opinions on Seaton's Voice idea to run our town hall.

There have been many views on this from people who know what they are talking about with regard to business ventures and have aired their misgivings.

And yet more views from people who obviously know nothing.

What we have not heard is Seaton's Voice detail of their business plan which we ratepayers have every right to have put in front of us in a detailed, professional way as we will be paying for it to the tune of £30,000 which means this will be taken out of Seaton town's precept, what the council has available to spend on our town.

I don't think ratepayers have been made fully aware of this.

If Seaton's Voice had approached any banking institution for a loan of this amount a business plan would be the first thing they would have been asked to produce together with sureties from Mrs Manning and others, that they would have some collateral backing, for example their homes, should the project fail.

Without these the answer would be a resounding no.

Mrs Manning's attitude at council meetings she has attended has been one of, I want this money, and I want it now, with a reluctance to explain how this money is to be spent.

She has treated our councillors with utter disrespect when being asked to be more forthcoming as to the spending of this money.

They are doing what they are expected to do, looking after the interests of the ratepayers.

What I would like to know from Mrs Manning is how much she will be paying herself per annum out of this amount.

If she cannot reply to my enquiry through your pages to this effect we need to be concerned.

Do we really want to put our town hall in the hands of amateurs, to my knowledge Mrs Manning and her so-called directors have no such business acumen or is this something else she is reluctant to divulge?

If nothing else it is a very easy and risk-free way of acquiring a salary from us ratepayers.

In my opinion East Devon District Council should be asking these pertinent questions on our behalf.

STAR LETTER
£10 Archway Bookshop vouchers are on their way to your door...

Impossible to negotiate

EDITOR — Mr Dunford says in his letter last week that the Stand Up for Seaton councillors who resigned should have stayed on to negotiate with Tesco.

This would have been incredibly difficult, not to say impossible since;

- All negotiations have been conducted by East Devon District Council and these have now been completed.

- Seaton Town councillors could only meet with Tesco representatives through the Seaton Regeneration Board, about which most people already know my views.

- A meeting was arranged by our local MP with Tesco at the House of Commons in June this year from which Stand Up for Seaton councillors were specifically excluded.

*Sandra Semple
Seaton*

Good giving

EDITOR — There has been so much bad feeling around locally and nationally about the government cuts, recession, and regeneration plans in Seaton.

There are plenty of things to actually be happy with, starting with the beauty of the place we live in by sea and river, the gorgeous public gardens and the Seaton in Bloom displays setting our little town aglow with dazzling colours throughout summer and autumn, a big thank you to all concerned.

But I want to tell you about the sheer generosity of people in Seaton and Beer particularly. Despite these straitened times, people are still digging in their pockets to give.

I asked Pecorama's managing director, Michael Pritchard, if we could put a collecting tin in the shop for the Pakistan Flood Appeal. No, he said, bring two tins. Added to that a plastic bottle was also filled. People were eager to give. They raised a staggering £401 for Christian Aid to pass on to the Disasters Emergency Appeal. Not just a thank you but a pat on the back.

Then five shops in Seaton agreed to take tins for Pakistan and were very anxious to help. So a big thank you to The Paper Chain, Animal Botanical, Sparmarket, G W Meats and Devon Fayre Bakery and to their customers for raising over £71. Many had given already.

The churches have been typically very generous. Seaton Methodist Church raised £265 and the United Reformed Church £250 for Pakistan in one-off collections. Brilliant.

Thank you all for showing such compassion. You have given hope to people who have nothing and that is priceless.

Pulman's

View from the churches

With Nigel
Speller

REVD Judith Abbott at Axminster writes:
"Times are becoming harder for many people, and the threat of redundancy or the effects of cuts in public spending will affect all of us."

"What is our response to be? As Christians, we need always to keep looking out for the needs of others and to give sacrificially when need arises. And we are also encouraged by Scripture to be thankful for the many blessings we do receive — which are often surprisingly more numerous than we might think."

"On a personal note, I have many blessings to count just now, as I was married to Roger last Saturday and will continue my work in the Axminster team with his support and encouragement, in company with our new Rector the Revd, Chris Rowberry, in December. "Blessings indeed, and for all of us to share."

The season of remembering is approaching, with church services to mark All Saints and All Souls, closely to be followed by Remembrance Sunday.

St Michael's Church Honiton was the venue for the annual memorial service in the Allhallows Chapel on Saturday last attended by former school pupils.

Branscombe Church remembered departed loved ones last Sunday; Colyton church does so on Sunday, November 7th at 6.30pm in a service entitled Time to Remember, when candles will be lit in remembrance; with refreshments to follow.

As we go to press the local forum of church magazine editors are meeting in Sidmouth.

At St Paul's Church in Honiton the Christmas Bazaar is announced for Friday, December 3rd in the narthex and gifts for the stalls will be very welcome.

Good news of grants for listed places of worship. As part of the Government spending review the Grant Scheme will continue but as modified by the changes announced earlier which excluded assistance for repair work to ancillary items such as pews and bells.

Society presents its first winter session

THE Axminster Horticultural Society had its first winter meeting on Wednesday, October 20th when Philip Davidson from the Heritage Centre at Charnmouth gave a talk on the Jurassic Coast.

Philip told members that he had loved fossils from childhood and had gone on to university to study palaeontology.

Charnmouth Heritage Centre is based in the upstairs floor of a long-disused cement factory.

The centre operates as an independent charitable trust within the larger framework of the UNESCO Dorset and East Devon Coast World Heritage Site known as the Jurassic Coast.

The Jurassic Coast stretches over a distance of 95 miles from Orcombe Point near Exmouth in the west to Studland Bay in the east, with gateway towns along the way.

The coastal exposures along the coastline provide a sequence of Triassic, Jurassic and Cretaceous rock formations spanning 185 million years of the earth's history.

The Triassic period began 248 million years ago and ended 206 million years ago.

This was followed by the Jurassic period that lasted 144 million years and after this came the Cretaceous period which spans from 140 to 65 million years ago.

Philip showed slides of various fossils which could be found from each period.

It was fascinating to see a fossil of a complete creature and be told that they could tell what had been in its stomach also fossilised skin had been found.

Members saw maps of where England would have been and how the continents had moved over the millions of years.

He showed slides of the coast and following it along the group saw the changes in the cliffs. Starting at Exmouth there is the red rock with its iron minerals, Budleigh Salterton has its pebble beds on to Beer and Seaton with the white chalk, the Charnmouth area and the mud slides.

The famous Chesil Bank made up of pebbles, Portland and its well-known stone, Lulworth Cove and limestone eventually reaching the Old Harry Rocks which are chalk.

We heard about Mary Anning and the fossils she had collected. A woman in a man's world at that time.

Men who respected her were such as William Conybeare, William Buckland and Henry De la Beche.

Philip Davidson made the evening an enjoyable one with his knowledge and a very good presentation. We will look at the cliffs and beaches with renewed interest.

The annual meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 17th which will be followed by Nick Ridgen with a talk entitled Plant Hunters.

This will be held at the United Reformed Church Hall, Chard Street, Axminster at 7.30pm.

Club gives heroes £433

AT its recent meeting the Axminster Inner Wheel Club was given a talk by Jessica Coulson from Help for Heroes the wonderful charity that is doing so much for our service men and women.

At the end of the meeting Angela King handed over a cheque for £433 — funds which had been raised earlier at a very successful Cream Tea Party.

The balance of the funds raised will be presented to Cancer Research UK at its next meeting.

The club continues to thrive with a full programme of speakers, social and fundraising events.

Members are looking forward to Festive Friday on December 10th in Trinity Square, Axminster, when they will be running a mulled wine and mince pie stall as they do so successfully last year.

Another fundraiser is planned in the spring next year — a cheese and apple pie lunch at Cloakham Lawn will be on Saturday, March 5th 2011.

Plant care at WI meeting

SEATON Women's Institute wishes to thank the Hospital League of Friends for some interesting feedback following its window display in the town.

At the monthly meeting Mrs A Pawley gave members some fresh ideas on displaying house plants with tips on plant care.

The Seaton WI annual meeting will take place at the Methodist Church Hall, Seaton, on Tuesday, November 16th at 2.15pm.

Bat facts fascinate Tuesday group

FACTS on Bats was the title of the evening organised by Veronica Wadey and Maureen Rich for the Yacombe Tuesday Club.

Dr Fiona Matthews is part of a large team of bat watchers tracking the areas and roosts especially of the very rare Horseshoe Bats.

Apparently the Beer Quarry Caves are the dwelling of a colony of these little flying mammals and their evening sorties are traced by radio waves all around the area.

All bats are very sociable and they communicate with each other by high pitched calls.

During the night they need to feed constantly as they have to eat their weight in insects to be able to survive and hibernate.

They have eyes and can see but as they feed at night they do not need to see, relying on their hearing and high pitched echoes and sounds to get around.

Dr Matthews had brought along two little bats for everyone to see and it was amazing to find how very small they actually were, their wingspan being exceedingly large.

Dr Matthews was thanked by Maureen Rich for her talk before tea, coffee bat cakes and shortbreads for refreshments were served.

Next month the meeting will take place at the home of Maggie Lane when members will sing along to Mama Mia.

In December the meeting will take the form of a party with singing by Airs and Graces with Vicki Wiggins and her friends.

Village country hotel cabaret bash raises £2,500 for charity

A COUNTRY hotel on the outskirts of Axminster has raised an enormous sum for a leukaemia charity.

The Ridgeway Country Hotel at Smallridge held a cabaret evening recently in aid of Exeter Leukaemia Fund (ELF).

A reported 78 people turned out at the village event and a huge £2,540 was raised.

A raffle and an auction were the main contributors to the cabaret's fund at the pub, owned by Kevin and Carole Baulch.

Kevin and his nieces presented a cheque to ELF on Wednesday evening.

TONY JACKSON

Do we really appreciate it?

IS it not absurd to think that, despite the fact that the dramatic Jurassic coastline is a mere 20 minutes' drive away, I visit the shoreline, usually at Charmouth in search of fossils, on only the odd occasion and when the mood strikes me, yet visitors countrywide and from abroad are lured to our wonderful coastline like wasps to a honey-pot.

Familiarity, if not breeding contempt, does make us idle and, perhaps, too often we fail to appreciate the wonderful part of this Island in which we live. Philosophical thoughts over! However, I was set on this train of thought by a press release sent to me by the Dorset Wildlife Trust.

Now, they claim, is the ideal time to go beach-combing. Colder weather is upon us and the gale-force winds and storms that lie ahead can deposit a curious array of wildlife remnants on our shores.

The spectacular squalls of winter can produce exotic crabs, several types of goose barnacle, shark egg-cases (mermaid's purses), cuttlefish and curious pieces of shipworm-riddled driftwood. You may even find dried seahorses or sea beans. In fact, one never knows what to expect after a massive storm, though fossils, such as ammonites, are always on the cards.

Meanwhile, the DWT suggest that photographs of any unusual finds can be sent to them for recording and identification. Tel 01929 481044. I am, of necessity, writing this column ahead of my trip to South Africa and the Kalahari, but once I return I must make the effort to beach-comb this winter and to enjoy the coast when it is most deserted.

On the butterfly front, this summer and autumn has been, locally, very disappointing. My buddleia, a massive bush which, in the past has been smothered in butterflies, this year attracted only a handful of peacocks, red admirals and very few tortoiseshells. This was disappointing after last year's surge in numbers of this latter butterfly.

However, I did see a specimen of each of these butterflies on October 17th, a day of golden sunshine and blue skies. On a more positive note I discovered a thriving, if modest, colony of small coppers on a warm, rough patch of long grass and thistles in an adjacent field. This handsome little insect will often have two or even three broods in a warm summer; constantly on the move, each male establishes its own territory and will aggressively see off any passing insect.

Earlier in the summer the local fields and hedgerows saw a good hatching of meadow browns, ringlets and gatekeepers, those small orange and brown butterflies which are common to hedgerows and woodland edges. It is very much a butterfly of the southern counties, particularly Dorset and Devon and flies in the second half of July, a month after the emergence of meadow browns. Although widely known as the gatekeeper, this small butterfly also sometimes goes by the name of hedge brown and was once even known as the small meadow brown or the hedge eye.

Perhaps I have been singularly unlucky, but painted ladies, those handsome orange and black butterflies, seemed to be in short supply this year. Migrating to northern Europe from their breeding grounds around the desert fringes of North Africa and Arabia, in some years their numbers are legion and they have even been known to fly as far north as the Arctic Circle.

Last year saw huge numbers of painted ladies in this country, but if the few I have spotted are any indication, this year will not have been on the same scale. Although they breed here, sometimes in warm summers producing two or more generations, it is not known whether our population migrates south as the weather deteriorates or simply perishes. Let's hope that next year brings a really hot summer and some improvement in the fortunes of all our butterflies.

Oh my god! Theres just 7 weeks to go!

Are you ready for the big day ? We are ready to help!!

This is the busiest time of the year for Alexander Paul Antiques, with the phones constantly ringing and internet enquiries at an all year high. There are so many good reasons for buying a beautiful antique country farmhouse dining table and they all seem to come together at this time of year.

There is no doubt that French country furniture and particularly dining tables have been a superb investment over the past years. The market for these tables however shows none of the slow down that seems to be affecting the housing market.

Unlike modern or reproduction furniture, our antique farmhouse tables are a very "green" product. No trees are cut down nor expensive high energy manufacturing processes employed; the age old skills of craftsmen are all that is needed; Oh, and of course, the value goes up once bought rather than down! Maybe it is because Christmas day revolves around the dining table that this is the busiest time of year for us. Beautifully laid up with all the best china, festooned with candles, crackers and Yule logs, surrounded by the family in their best attire with children on their best behavior (we hope!) it becomes the center of all that is happening on Christmas day.

The good news is that whatever your reason for buying a table, we have a wonderful selection of tables at Alexander Paul Antiques. We have tables of all lengths that can sit all the family. We have tables of Oak Ash Cherry Chestnut Beech Pine Walnut and Elm. Tables so old they have a radiant beauty of their own; Known as patination this is the result of years or centuries of polish applied and time gently passing by.

Tables that have seen generations pass and world wars crash around them. These tables were made by the local village craftsmen in a by-gone age before words like plywood mdf and flat pack had been invented!

Having now passed through the hands of our team of skilled restorers and with a fresh coat of polish applied, these tables now await the next chapter in their lives.

Guaranteed to bring warmth class and style to your home we invite you to come down to our new showrooms in Fenny Bridges (just 2 miles west of Honiton on the old A30) and take a look for yourselves. We offer a warm welcome, plenty of free parking and the largest selection of French farmhouse tables in the West Country. Alternatively take a look at our award winning and easy to use web site at www.alexanderpaulantiques.com where you will find a full on line stock catalogue, with all prices sizes and contact details.

If you need a new table for Christmas we have the one for you.....but beware.....don't leave it too late, or we may sell out!

N J Whittaker

N J Whittaker remains busy with a nice mixture of domestic new builds, extensions and renovations.

The weather has been kind to us over the last few weeks which makes progress on sites so much easier and helps to keep a smile on the men's faces in the dark Mornings!

What the new year will bring with the government cuts and the VAT rise who knows but the local architects still seem to be busy which hopefully will filter down as work for us builders.

The big positive of historically low interest rates will we think override the vat increase and the government cut backs will probably not have as big an impact on us here in East Devon as other parts of the country. Here's hoping!

Builders Question :-

From Mr Mike Dent

I've been told that lime render is the material to use to control damp on external walls, is this correct?

Answer:-

This very much depends on the age and construction of the wall. If the property is old and the walls are solid then yes probably lime render is the way to go. If however the property is more modern and of cavity construction then a cement render would be the choice and more cost effective option.

Sailor stripes are all the rage for fashion, so let your home pay a salute to the nautical trend. Get rooms ship-shape with coastal homeware

If there's one interior style that can help us sail calmly through these stormy times, it's a seafaring one.

Whether you call it nautical - the trendy term for a look that's taken the fashion catwalk by storm - or coastal, the secret of it's enduring appeal is its soothing colours and a sunny vibe.

Done well, this style could give you the feeling that you've escaped to a tranquil holiday hideaway, where the beach and sea seems but a stroll from your door, even if your actual location is strictly urban.

"The nautical trend is hugely popular at the moment perhaps because we're all hankering to escape to peaceful sanctuaries," says designer Joanna Wood.

"You can play with all sorts of colours to provide a fresh, ship-shape, contrast. So think navy blue, pillar box red, pale blue and then accent with light and dark neutrals like taupe, white, or ivory."

Her collection of coastal accessories would gladden the heart of anyone seeking 'sailor style', and it includes decorative wooden yachts, starfish, and dishes made from pebbles.

Luckily trawling the rest of the high street for accessories is easy as its awash with blue and white goodies, and there's also a great choice of online companies offering everything from driftwood to 'beach signs'.

One word of warning though, you don't want to make your home look like a beached cabin cruiser.

For success, try either an elegant white-washed New England look or an understated 'beach hut' style advises Annie Deakin, editor of mydeco.com.

She says: "Often, adding a hint of a trend is stronger and more stylish than doing a complete image overhaul."

"If you go over the top with your nautical theme, it can end up being too contrived. Start by using natural, chalky paints to get that soft, slightly sun-bleached look, and then accessorise."

We've gone beachcombing and found all the elements so you can sail away in style.

Water firm's plea to public

A WATER company has asked members of the public to help prevent blockages after a bundle of rags blocked a sewer in Colyton.

The appeal comes after firefighters were called to assist South West Water and the owner of a flooded property in Colyton on Thursday, October 28th.

South West Water received a call about a flooding at a property in Sidmouth Road at 9.20am and a gang was alerted. The gang discovered that a six-inch sewer was blocked by a bundle of rags.

Firefighters were also called to the scene and the blockage was cleared and the water drained away.

A South West Water spokesperson said the following day that a CCTV team will visit the site to ensure there is no danger of recurring problems in the pipe.

The spokesperson added: "We don't know exactly why this pipe was blocked but often blockages occur when people have put unsuitable items down the drain."

Every year, South West Water has to clear up to 6,000 blockages from its sewers. Around 75 customers' homes are flooded internally with sewage every year due to sewer blockages — and another 320 customers suffer garden flooding.

The spokesperson also said: "It's worth reminding people not to put the so-called 'dirty dozen' down the drain: fat, oils and grease; food waste; cotton buds; tampon applicators and wrapping; disposable nappies; condoms; plastic bags; bandages and plasters; razor blades; baby wipes; cleaning wipes and disposable toilet brushes; needles and syringes.

"It may sound amazing, but we do get all of these in our sewers. All these items should be disposed of in the bin."

◆ AXMINSTER Arts treasurer Tim Leat and chairman Tony Fells are pictured presenting the cheque to secretary Sue Mackay and Becky Coombes of Rainbow Under 5s Playgroup

Arts project provides a pot of gold for Rainbow group

RAINBOW Under 5s Playgroup was the big winner when Axminster Arts held its annual meeting on Wednesday, October 20th.

The playgroup received a cheque for £100 from Axminster Arts towards its Music is Fun project.

The cheque was gratefully received and it will be used to buy percussion instruments.

Playgroup committee secretary and fundraiser Sue Mackay said: "If it wasn't for the generosity of organisations like yours, we would only be able to provide the basics."

Axminster Arts members replied that their organisation is pleased to be able to sponsor a project which encourages young children to foster a love for making music.

Axminster Arts was formed just over 11 years ago to further all forms of the arts in Axminster and the surrounding area.

Members opened the Arts Cafe on November 1st in 1999 to provide an exhibition space for local artists.

Profits from the cafe are used to sponsor arts events and projects such as Art Workshops for children and the Rainbows Under 5s Music for Fun project.

The organisation also offers sponsorship for sixth formers who wish to study one of the arts at further education, as well as sponsoring events held during the Arts in the Garden season.

For more information about holding an exhibition in the Arts Cafe or about Axminster Arts sponsorship, contact Jenny on 01460 220727 or call into the arts cafe for an application form.

Opening hours are Mondays to Fridays from 9.30am-3.30pm and Saturdays from 9.30am-2pm.

EDDC PLANS: COMPLAINTS PROCEEDURE 'TRIM DOWN'

By ANDERS LARSSON

anders@vindlenews.co.uk

EAST Devon District Council could be streamlining its formal complaints procedure.

The decision will be made by members of the Executive Board, which meets on Wednesday, November 3rd.

There are currently three possible stages in the council's complaint procedure, but officers have recommended members of the Executive Board to trim it down to two.

A report explained: "Most complaints currently go through a three-stage process.

"They are initially considered by the relevant head of service (stage one).

"If the complainant is still dissatisfied they progress to stage two where the complaint is responded to by one of the corporate directors.

"If a complainant remains unhappy, stage three is where the matter is investigated by the deputy chief executive and monitoring officer.

"The complainant then has the right to refer their complaint for consideration by the Local Government Ombudsman."

But the process could be streamlined by merging two of the stages.

The report explained: "It may be possible to combine stages one and two in that the complaint will be investigated by the head of service (with input from other officers as needed).

"The draft response will then be considered by the corporate director responsible for the service who will then amend as necessary before signing it off.

"The purpose of the two-stage procedure is to ensure that complainants have the opportunity to have their complaint investigated by professional officers linked closely to the service in question and then, if needed, for an objective and independent assessment to be made by a senior officer who is not connected to the service."

The proposed change stems from guidance issued by the Local Government Ombudsman, which states that a two-stage process is appropriate to deal with most complaints.

"The ombudsman considers that 12 weeks (from receipt of complaint to final response) allows sufficient time for a council to deal with a complaint, though she encourages councils to respond as quickly as possible in all cases" the report summed up.

Selected for march point

HONITON has been selected as a stop and start point for March for Honour.

Four teams of current and former servicemen will start marching from one of four chosen UK locations on Thursday, November 4th - all heading for Wootton Bassett.

The Royal Marines Commandos team is scheduled to leave Plymouth on that day, heading for Exeter.

The following day - Friday, November 5th - team members will leave Exeter and head for Dowell Street Car Park in Honiton.

On Saturday, November 6th, team members will again be at Dowell Street car park.

Their start time is 9am and they will follow the A30 towards that day's final destination, Yeovil.

The aim is to raise £1million for the Royal British Legion by speed marching a mile for every British military life lost on operations in Iraq and Afghanistan since 2001.

Wearing military uniform and carrying in excess of 40 pounds, each team will march an average of 30 miles a day and a total distance of up to 250 miles.

The teams will unite at Wootton Bassett before marching into London to deliver the Book of Remembrance to the Royal British Legion's Festival of Remembrance.

Court case first before 'chalet' decision made

By ANDERS LARSSON
anders@findlenews.co.uk

YEAR-ROUND chalet occupants at The Cedars, Otter Valley Park, Honiton, can remain for the time being.

Members of East Devon District Council's (EDDC) Development Management Committee met on October 19th and decided to await the conclusion of a civil court case before making a decision.

The problem is that year-round occupation is in breach of planning rules as the chalets are for holiday occupation only.

The matter has been going on for a number of years and was previously debated by the committee in January 2010.

Twenty chalet owners were issued with enforcement notices some time ago, but a decision to initiate enforcement action was put on hold because of a civil court case.

As reported last week, a number of chalet owners are seeking compensation from the owners of Otter Valley Park through a civil case being heard at Bristol Crown Court.

EDDC has stressed that year-round occupation will not be tolerated whatever the outcome of the court case.

But it was deemed appropriate to let the court case conclude as the chalet owners could use compensation payments to find alternative accommodation should they be successful in court.

As a result, the decision on enforcement action was put on hold some time ago with a view to look at it again in September this year.

Unfortunately, the court case has only been part heard - and is not expected to be concluded until later this year or early next year.

Members of the Development Management Committee met on October 19th and decided to extend the period of grace.

An EDDC spokesperson said: "Members deferred it for 12 months or the conclusion of the civil case (whichever is the sooner) for a full report to be taken back exploring all potential options to resolve the issue."

Swire welcomes park news

AN east Devon politician has welcomed the news that a playground will be built in the village of West Hill, near Ottery St Mary.

The project can now go ahead following the government's comprehensive spending review.

Hugo Swire, MP for the East Devon constituency, said he pressed schools secretary Michael Gove over the issue.

A scheme in Aylesbeare, close to West Hill, has also been given the green light.

Mr Swire said: "I visited both projects and raised them with schools secretary Michael Gove.

"These projects mean a lot to the local communities involved and I am very pleased that the funding has now been confirmed."

◆ THE horticulture group from Barnfield Farm, Luppitt, crush apples during National Apple Day

Own-brand juice for apple day celebration

STAFF and residents at Barnfield Farm, Luppitt, near Honiton, celebrated National Apple Day by creating their own brand of apple juice.

Barnfield Farm is a care home for young people with learning disabilities.

A spokesman for the home said: "To celebrate the day our horticulture group were loaned an apple crusher and press from Vigo in Dunksell. The day was led by our horticulture staff Phil Foggett and horticulture project leader Chris Barron.

"With the group all very eager to make apple juice we split up into teams to pick, sort, wash and crush and press the apple juice.

"Everyone had a taste of the first apples pressed and was very pleased with the results. At the end of the two days we had made over 50 pints of fresh organic apple juice."

The spokesman added that the apple juice is now being enjoyed by the residents of the care home.

She said: "Our aim is to grow as much of our own produce and to become less reliant on the supermarkets, therefore saving money and reducing our CO2 production and at the same time helping to save the environment."

Celebrate your day at the Bridge House Hotel, Beaminster

700-year-old BridgeHouse is a magical, Dorset country hotel that oozes the character and ambience that only comes with generations of history passing through its doors. Originally a home for a dozen priests, the hotel now has its own unique style, sympathetic to its heritage but also contemporary in a relaxed, modern way.

The aim is to create an unpretentious home from home while providing modern luxury and comfort. Every bedroom is different and has been sympathetically brought into the 21st century with modern bathrooms, wi-fi, flat screen tvs and Frette linen as standard.

Acclaimed Dorset Restaurant

AA Rosette awarded and featured in the BBC's Good Food magazine, the hotel's restaurant - the Beaminster Brasserie - enjoys an enviable reputation, drawing upon West Dorset's wealth of produce from freshly caught fish to organic, local meat, fruit and vegetables - all served without fuss or hurry. Whether it's an alfresco light lunch, a celebratory dinner or a truly unique Dorset wedding venue, then the BridgeHouse is simply unique and perfect.

An ideal location for walking holidays in Dorset, BridgeHouse shares the same stretch of the River Brit made famous by Channel 4's "River Cottage" series and is surrounded by some of Dorset's most spectacular countryside.

One Fat Lady back in flavour

When Clarissa Dickson Wright takes on a challenge, the aristocratic cook does it properly. The former 'Fat Lady' talks about the challenges of tackling one-pot recipes for her latest book Potty and why the new Conservative government has brought her back into favour with TV executives.

Formerly one half of the Two Fat Ladies, the larger-than-life cook loves hunting, fresh meat from the butcher and chewing the fat.

But it's a while since you last saw her on television. "Blair was trying to ban everything I stood for... and Alistair Campbell ran the BBC," she says, as explanation for her absence.

While she's here to talk about her new one pot cookbook, Potty, the cook is equally as excited about becoming flavour of the month again.

Since New Labour's exit, Dickson Wright says her agent has been inundated with offers and she's just back from a bout of filming.

"I always said that when there was a change of government I'd be back on television. The old lot hated Clarissa And The Countryman [her second BBC series]. I was making television about all the things Blair was trying to ban and get rid of - like farming."

While the former PM might disagree with her interpretation of history, it's a fact that Dickson Wright marched with the Countryside Alliance against the last government's controversial Hunting Act, and has always been keen to voice her disapproval over any perceived lack of support for British food and agriculture.

For the last few years, the aristocratic cook and former alcoholic (who managed to drink her way through a £2.8 million fortune in her early years) says her professional life has revolved around writing books.

"When the publisher Hodder approached me with this idea, I said, 'On God no' because, having been a cookery book seller for 20 years, I knew that one pot cookbooks are always rather dreary."

Still, she likes a challenge, and soon began experimenting with the idea.

"There are lots of variants on what constitutes a pot," she laughs. "I remembered the eggs and bacon in a tin mug idea from when I was rector at the University of Aberdeen and was rustling up food for the students."

One of the recipes in Potty has attracted attention for its less than appetising title: Primordial Soup.

"I was sitting next to a biologist who worked at the Natural History Museum. We were discussing where life came from and she said she thought it came from primordial soup."

"What a great idea for a recipe', I thought, so I went off and created a Japanese-type soup filled with seaweed, so it looked like the beginnings of life."

Luckily for Dickson Wright, having written 16 cookbooks she now has "a palate in [her] head".

"I lie in bed thinking about what to do. I think about a chicken, add flavours to it and then I get up and make it - and nowadays it virtually always works."

She describes her style of cooking as very simple. "It's all about the quality of ingredients. But while your food will be 10 times better if you've got a good fishmonger and a good butcher, if you get the flavours right it will still be good."

"Although if anyone who's read more than one of my books still buys their meat in supermarkets, I'm surprised they're still buying my books."

Having just completed some filming for a new series, The Great British Food Revival, to be broadcast in January 2011 on BBC Two, she says she wishes people would focus programmes on food, rather than celebrity chefs.

"I plead with Pat Llewellyn (the producer behind the Two Fat Ladies, Gordon Ramsay and Jamie Oliver): 'Go away from the chef thing - no one cares any more what the food tastes like'."

But Dickson Wright's a little more hopeful about the state of British agriculture now there's been a change of government.

"A few years ago I went up to a Defra stand at the Yorkshire Show and there was no mention of British food, or farming. So I asked about it and the man on the stand said, 'We can import it cheaper'."

"Now we have a Defra minister who's a farmer, Richard Benyon, and Jim Paice, who comes from farming stock and knows a thing about British food and farming."

Gift Ideas

Martin Young's beautiful hand-crafted Swing Seats and Rope Swings become the gift of a lifetime when hand-carved with names, dates, quotes or special memories.

Specially chosen wording; carvings of precious pets or important personal symbols, emblems and images, quotes, initials and commemorative dates such as major birthdays or anniversaries are very popular and can be easily added to any of the four Swing Seats options in the Sitting Spiritually Collection, Tranquillity, Harmony, Serenity or the award winning Kyokusen.

Strongly Influenced by the sea near his home on the Devon/Dorset border, Martin can also inlay ammonites from the Jurassic Coast into seat backs, arms and his ammonite shaped tables.

Martin's Swing Seats suit every stage of life from little ones to the elderly, and there is nothing more wonderful than the whole family clubbing together to buy a swing seat for a parent or grandparent and having it engraved with something important and meaningful to celebrate a landmark birthday or an anniversary. A truly special gift designed to be enjoyed for many years to come, it will only improve with age, the Oak turning a soft silvery grey as it blends effortlessly into its surroundings.

Martin works out of his studio high above Lyme Regis; his garden is open to the public at certain times of the year and you can see his swing seats there and try them out for yourself. To make an appointment or find out more contact Martin on 01297 443084 or email martin@sittingspiritually.co.uk celebrating the vintage best of Van the Man.

An evening of soulful music

Van Morrison's repertoire has touched many generations and left thousands of fans sometimes bemused but enthralled by his music.

With 39 solo albums since 1967, and an earlier catalogue featuring legendary rock pioneers Them, Van's musical odyssey includes, spiritual, nostalgic, poetic and bittersweet personal observations of life.

The Vancoovers select music from Van's legendary albums such as Astral Weeks, Moondance, Tupelo Honey, St Dominic's Preview, Veedon Fleece, Hard Nose The Highway, Wavelength, Poetic Champions Compose, Enlightenment as well as songs from his early solo career and Them.

This musical tribute aims to recreate the vibrant live and studio recordings and celebrate one of music's great songwriters and soul survivors.

A must for all fans of Van The Man. The band's musicians work together in well known south west acts such as The Sidekicks, Motel 6, Gothic Chicken, Custer's Last Blues Band, The Mutter Slater Band, The Jess Upton Soul band, UK Pink Floyd and Triops.

Individuals have also featured alongside musicians such as Van Morrison himself, Dave Gilmour, PJ Harvey, Andy Sheppard, Art Tatum, Mick Taylor (Rolling Stones), Billy Bragg, Ben Waters, Pauline Black (The Selecter), Gordon Haskell, Robbie McIntosh (Pretenders), Paul McCartney, Norah Jones, John Mayer, The Foundations and Geno Washington.

THEATRE

STUDENTS from Back to Broadway's Colyton-based musical theatre school took to the stage at Manor Pavilion, Sidmouth, as part of a professional production.

The musical Hairspray was given on Saturday, October 30th, supporting Children's Hospice South West.

Three years ago Mike and Sue Bearcroft, of Colyton, began operating Back to Broadway Musical Theatre Summer Schools for young people across the UK.

In 2009 they opened at Colyton Grammar School with High School Musical, followed by Hairspray in 2010.

To coincide with the summer school operation the professional touring stage show Back to Broadway was born.

The company donates all profits to children's charities throughout the UK, and has raised over £20,000 to date.

Following the success of the summer schools, year round theatre schools will be opening on Saturday mornings in Colyton, Taunton, Bromsgrove and Wolverhampton.

Musical stage students hit Broadway

The popular week-long summer schools will continue in various UK locations, including Colyton.

Back to Broadway has been granted exclusive use of the rights to perform the hit musical Grease for 2011.

Back to Broadway believes that giving young people the chance to work with, and be taught by, established industry professionals they will build their confidence, skills and it is a great experience for them.

The company was recently accepted as a member of the National Association of Youth Theatre, and the stage show has been seen as far afield as Mexico, as well as various UK theatres and corporate events.

It seems that the formula of bringing West End musical theatre stars together with young people to ultimately benefit less fortunate children, is indeed a winning one.

MUSIC

From Russia

ALEXANDER Ardakov is a Russian professional pianist, a graduate of the Moscow Conservatoire and prize-winner at the Viotti International competition in Italy (1984).

Between 1981 and 1991 he played with the Moscow State Philharmonia. Since 1991, he has lived in London, working as Professor of Piano at Trinity College of Music, London.

He has performed for BBC Radio 3 and Classic FM, and made numerous CD recordings, including pieces by Chopin, Tchaikovsky, Mozart and Sergei Rachmaninov — he has recorded Rachmaninov's Second Piano Concerto with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Sir Alexander Gibson.

He is to visit Seaton on November 4th, where he will play a wide ranging programme of mainly romantic works on Seaton Music's fine Steinway piano.

The programme will include music by Tchaikovsky and John Skiba, as well as a piano reduction of Mussorgsky's Pictures At An Exhibition.

The evening will be completed by a short programme of four of Chopin's well-known Polonaises.

The concert takes place at Seaton Town Hall and will begin at 7.30 p.m. Tickets for the concert are priced at £12 on the door, subject to availability, and are free if you are a student.

They are also available from Eve Gallery, Fore Street, Seaton, on 01297 21482.

If you wish to book in advance. Either way you are, as always, assured of a warm welcome at what will undoubtedly be a memorable concert.

MUSIC

● AFTER 22 years, Axminster Operatic Society is again staging one of the best loved and magical musicals of all time, Show Boat from November 17th to 20th at The Guildhall.

They first performed this show in 1988, when well known local sisters Anette Deem, pictured bottom, and Vanessa Cross, below, played the roles of Kim and Ellie May Chipley respectively. Both ladies are showing their versatility by again performing in next month's production of Showboat, with Anette playing the no nonsense, loud, but lovable Queenie, whilst Vanessa will be taking on the smaller part of Lottie.

Show Boat is regarded as one of the all time greats with beautiful music, comedy and drama and unforgettable songs written by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II like Of Man River, Only Make Believe, Why Do I Love You and Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man.

Show Boat will be directed by Nick Lawrence and musically directed by Rob Preece.

Tickets are available now from The Archway Bookshop, Axminster, on 01297 33595.

NEW READING

Everything We Ever Wanted
by Sara Shepard

THE author of the teenage series Pretty Little Liars offers a more grown-up look at life in suburban Philadelphia.

Everything We Ever Wanted finds Sylvie Bates-McAllister, who runs her grandfather's beloved Swithin school, in the midst of a family and social crisis.

Following the tragic death of a Swithin pupil, her family's carefully cultivated mask of superiority and decorum, which has hidden sorrow and strain for many years, is about to crack.

Sylvie's relationship with her son Charles and his wife Joanna, and her adopted son Scott, are going to change irrevocably and the assurances of her dead grandfather, Charles Broderick, will be broken.

But despite the dramatic premise, Everything We Ever Wanted is far too ponderous, with not enough oomph to hold interest for too long.

Brideshead Abbreviated: The Digested Read Of The Twentieth Century by John Crace

INSPIRED by his Digested Read column in The Guardian, John Crace takes a whistlestop romp through 100 classic novels of the 20th Century in this entertaining book.

His criteria are simple — books must be summarised in three pages, no author can feature more than once and each decade must be represented by 10 books.

The result is a fun read which hurtles through a broad selection of well known works spanning Joseph Conrad to Nick Hornby, and everything in between.

Crace takes no prisoners as he chews up and spits out a century of literature in a series of pithy parodies. The brilliance of the book lies in his ability to not only pinpoint and send-up the essence of each novel's story and themes, but also to mimic the writers' style.

An amusing treat for the well-read and a fantastic cheat's guide for those who feel they should probably have read more.

Remembering Ronnie Barker
by Richard Webber

RICHARD Webber — the author of a host of books on popular TV programmes and stars — returns with a detailed biography of one of Britain's most accomplished comedy performers.

Webber examines every aspect of Ronnie Barker's career in great depth, drawing on comments from countless individuals. The number of quotes used by the author is staggering, input of a former colleague, friend or associate of Barker.

Webber's research certainly cannot be faulted and he unearths plenty of interesting information from behind the scenes of legendary shows such as The Two Ronnies, Porridge and Open All Hours, while also chronicling Barker's early work as a repertory performer.

The copy does not always flow as neatly as it should, but on the whole, it is an interesting and informative review of a glittering career.

FOOD

Marco makes it easy

Marco Pierre White's fillet steak with shallots and Dijon mustard
(Serves 4)

50g unsalted butter
4 large shallots (or 2 large onions), very finely sliced
4 fillet steaks (about 180g each)
Dijon mustard, to your taste
A handful of fresh flat leaf parsley, to garnish

In a frying or saute pan, melt the butter; add the shallots and saute them until soft and golden. Drain them in a colander, but keep the butter because you'll need it in a minute.

Return the pan to the heat and pour in a tablespoon of olive oil. Add the steaks and fry for 3-4 minutes on each side, turning them once only.

Remove the pan from the heat and allow the steaks to rest in the pan in a warm part of the kitchen for 5-10 minutes.

Using a pastry brush, paint the Dijon mustard on top of each steak and then spoon on the golden shallots. Reheat the shallot butter and pour it over the steaks.

Top with the chopped parsley. Beautiful!

Marco Pierre White's Peaches poached in Champagne
(Serves 6)

1 bottle Champagne (or Prosecco)
600g caster sugar
6 peaches

In a casserole or ovenproof dish combine the Champagne and the sugar. Bring to the boil and stir so that the sugar dissolves.

Put the peaches in the liquid and put an upturned plate on top of them to keep them submerged in the liquid.

Turn down the heat and simmer gently for about 10 minutes, or until the tip of a knife can penetrate the peach without resistance.

Remove from the heat and allow the fruit to cool in its own syrup. Serve with a little creme fraiche.

FILM

THE 1960s were a time of great change: America mourned the assassination of John F Kennedy, the Civil Rights Movement gained momentum and man took his first steps on the moon.

For the 187 women machinists employed at Ford's Dagenham assembly plant in 1968, it was a decade when a single act of rebellion changed history.

Disgusted by their lowly standing in the eyes of management compared to the male workers, the women went on strike to protest against unequal pay and sexual discrimination.

The subsequent power struggle with the board of the plant established a precedent for women around the world, proving that a few strong-willed individuals can slay a corporate giant.

Blessed with a powerful lead performance from Sally Hawkins that should be a prime contender for end of year awards consideration, Made in Dagenham dismisses the notion that Essex girls serve only one purpose as the butt of cheap jokes.

Mother of two Rita O'Grady (Sally Hawkins) works in the Ford plant with good friend Connie (Geraldine James), who is a union rep alongside Alfred Passingham (Bob Hoskins).

When the management, led by Peter Hopkins (Rupert Graves), shows preference to the male workers, Rita joins the negotiations and proves that she is no pushover, telling Hopkins, "Rights not privileges. It's that bloody easy, it really is."

When her words fall on deaf ears, Rita risks her marriage to plant worker Eddie (Daniel Mays) by persuading the workforce to go on strike and taking their grievances to Secretary of State for Employment, Barbara Castle (Miranda Richardson).

Made In Dagenham evokes the period perfectly with a toe-tapping soundtrack and groovy fashions of the era.

Hawkins delivers a bravura, emotionally wrought performance as a woman who risks everything for what she believes in.

Colyton £415,000

Fortnam
Smith & Banwell

Endwell is a detached character property which was extended and updated completely three years ago to a high standard and now offers extremely spacious, flexible accommodation throughout. Internally the house has retained many original features including a lovely inglenook fireplace in the large open plan lounge/dining room. The property is located just off the centre of the historic town of Colyton and is therefore within easy reach of the town's shops and amenities and also the renowned Colyton Grammar School. The accommodation comprises: Lounge/Dining Room, Kitchen, Second Reception Room, Cloakroom, Landing, Office Area, Master Bedroom with Ensuite, 2 Further Double Bedrooms, Large Bathroom, Boiler Room, Garden, Ample Parking. This property must be viewed internally to be fully appreciated. Please Contact Fortnam Smith & Banwell Seaton on 01297 23939 for full particulars.

Better trained staff gain an intimate understanding of what the customer is going through and are able to help you endure the inherently stressful process of moving more readily. Training in buyer psychology is also very useful when it comes to knowing why people buy which property, how they negotiate, and the reasons why they sometimes withdraw from a purchase.

Good staff development also provides the added benefit of having happy, fulfilled and loyal staff who take pride in their work – which is a real asset to our customers. It also means they are at the cutting edge of estate agency, and we make a point of adopting a spirit of innovation and continuous improvement in all aspects of our work.

“Peace of Mind”

It is perhaps quite worrying that anyone can start trading as an estate agent, without any qualifications whatsoever. This makes it all the more important that you choose an agency which puts a high value on training.

Whilst being passionate about professionalism, this does not mean that the traditional values we cherish are in any way old fashioned. Indeed, we are proud to be different. For example, we do not have a formulaic approach to the way in which we work and encourage each of our staff to play to their strengths. So in many ways, our business is a reflection of the personalities involved – a far cry from the systemised approach adopted by the corporate estate agency chains!

We are proud of our contribution to the Seaton property scene, and have a real energy and love for the business of creating a smooth moving experience people will be delighted about. After all – we're on your side!

Why running a home has got cheaper

An in-depth look at issues in the residential property market.

By Jeremy Gates

A look at the world of property with Jeremy Gates

The cost of owning and running a home in the UK has fallen by 6% over the past two years, according to new research by Halifax.

In the two years to April 2010, says Halifax, the average annual cost associated with owning and running a home fell £544 from £9,564 to £9,020.

With the coalition Government demanding a freeze on council tax, pressures on the home front for millions are being eased by rock-bottom mortgage rates.

Halifax says that in real terms (after allowing for retail price inflation), housing costs in the UK are now equivalent to 27% of gross average full-time earnings - down from 30% in 2008.

The fall in the cost of housing since 2008 has been driven by a 19% (£881) decline in mortgage payments (interest and capital repayments). The average mortgage rate paid by existing borrowers between April 2008 and April 2010 fell from 5.80% to 3.67%.

Although London has the highest costs of running and owning a home (£11,762), the percentage of gross average full-time earnings is the lowest in the capital (24%).

However, there is a huge variation in what Londoners earn: average earnings of those living in Westminster (£83,969) were 189% higher than those living in Newham (£29,025) in 2009.

The average annual cost of housing in households in the South East is £10,457. Housing costs are lowest in Northern Ireland at £7,331.

Housing costs are highest in relation to earnings in the East of England (31%).

In the past year, the average expenses associated with owning and running a home actually increased by 1.3% (£116) - less than a third of the rise in retail prices (5.3%).

Suren Thiru, Halifax housing economist, says: "Over the last two years, the cost associated with owning and running a home in the UK has fallen - entirely as a consequence of reduced mortgage payments.

"The drop in housing costs has helped to ease the strain on households' finances, providing some relief to homeowners during the economic downturn."

Mortgage costs are the most-significant single factor (41%) influencing the cost of housing.

Electricity and gas charges account for the second-highest share after mortgage payments (15%), followed by council tax charges and domestic rates (14%).

Nine of the 11 housing costs categories analysed recorded above-inflation increases between April 2008 and April 2010. The cost of home maintenance, electricity and gas charges, and household appliances all rose by 10% over the two years.

"It's all in a name"

The address of a property can have a significant effect on its value, according to new research from a property website.

Zoopla.co.uk claims that properties located on 'hills' and 'lanes' are worth 50% more than the national average, while 'streets' and 'terraces' have the lowest average property values across the UK.

Meanwhile, homes on 'Church Lane' are worth more than double those on 'Chapel Street'. So your address can have a significant impact on the value of your home.

Zoopla, which provides free value estimates for every UK home, calculated the average property values for each of the 858,000 residential locations in the UK and found that the highest value properties in the country are to be found on a 'hill', where average house prices stand at £341,466 - well above the national average.

Other names high in the list include 'lane' (average £328,378); 'mews' (£294,869); 'park' (£283,069); and 'green' (£269,861).

At the other end of the spectrum, the average home on a 'street' in the UK is valued today at £155,515 - less than half that of one on a 'hill' and well below the national average.

'Terrace' (£156,387) only fared marginally better than 'street'. Rounding out the bottom five were 'crescent' (£176,942), 'court' (£178,488) and 'view' (£184,546).

The most common residential location name by far is 'road' with 144,322 of them across the UK. The next most common is 'close' with 98,778, followed by 'street' with 58,637.

The Zoopla research revealed there are three times as many 'roads' as 'avenues' (47,488) and three times as many 'avenues' as 'terraces' (16,532).

In terms of exclusivity, the least common location names within the top 20 were revealed as 'square' (3,859) and 'mews' (4,825). Owners of properties in a 'mews' are sitting pretty in the top three both in terms of average property values and exclusivity.

The average property on the 1,547 'Church Lanes' across the UK is valued at an impressive £364,635, against the national average of £217,624.

Conversely, properties on the 507 'Chapel Streets' around the country are valued well below average (£159,433).

The most common road names in the UK are 'High Street' (2,431 of them) and 'Station Road' (1,929), with national average values of £237,992 and £231,943 respectively - probably helped by proximity to local services suggested in their names.

Nicholas Leeming, Zoopla commercial director, says: "Most people typically don't pay much attention to the name of the road when deciding where to buy, but clearly names can have an impact on both property values and the appearance of exclusivity.

"The average property on a 'hill' is worth £185,000 more than the average property on a 'street'.

"If it's exclusivity that is sought after, maybe a mews or square is for you. To bag a bargain, it may be a 'terrace' or 'crescent' you want."

TV property expert Phil Spencer talks about his partnership with Kirsty Allsopp and offers his top tips for home improvements and adding value.

There are certain things in life that seem natural partners: strawberries and cream, sea and sand, and surely, Phil Spencer and Kirstie Allsopp. They're the yin and yang of property experts, with Phil's down-to-earth practicality and Kirstie's bubbly and effortless ability to bond with couples seeking homes on Channel 4's two hugely successful series, Location, Location, Location, and its successor, Relocation, Relocation. "We're a bit like brother and sister because we know each other extremely well now," says Phil, with a smile. "We know what makes the other tick, how to wind each other up, and all our bickering and teasing is totally genuine. What you see on the programmes is what we're like off screen. "I'm practical, good on the structural aspects and get a buzz out of the buying deals. Kirstie's excellent at the architecture, interiors and getting inside people's heads and relationships. We complement each other well." But while their TV partnership has run smoothly over the ten years since they found fame, the property market has been battered by the recession, and as a nation we've been forced to rethink our attitude to homes. Now, the mantra's "don't move, improve" and Phil not only welcomes the change in approach, but has put together a new comprehensive guide called Adding Value To Your Home. It evaluates a range of improvements as well as pointing out practical ways to make a home more pleasurable to live in. "Both are important nowadays. The cost of moving is high and homes aren't shooting up in price as rapidly as they once were, so people are staying put much longer," Phil points out. "It's good that we're returning to the idea that homes are sanctuaries and a refuge from the world of work, and not primarily assets that you just do up to make a fast buck. And after all, why only make improvements before you sell? Do them now and get the benefit for yourself." His golden rule for property buying is to "buy for the long term, adapt if necessary, or buy something to improve and add value." Phil, 40, a qualified surveyor and property finder, followed his own advice when he bought the family home in Wandsworth, London, five years ago, where he lives with wife, Fiona and sons, Jake, five, and Ben, three. He's almost doubled the size of the five-bedroom semi, by adding a basement and a kitchen extension, and is currently creating a playroom for the children. "Personally, I have no intention of moving again...that's our home for good! "The market isn't going to race away as it once did. It will rise - but probably only around three to four per cent a year, so adding value will be key." Follow Phil's advice on improving your home... Extensions and lofts "The way I look at it, it's cheaper to build a space than it is to buy it. Square footage costs money," says Phil. "A well-thought-out extension can feel like you've created a completely new house. But think through your plans carefully so that you know the result will give you a practical, usable area and, if it's a kitchen extension, it doesn't overwhelm a garden." Normally, he says, a skilful extension can add about 10-15% to the value of the home, while a loft, which can cost between £10,000 to £40,000, could potentially add between 15 and 20%. But, he advises taking into account that storage space will be lost, and installing a staircase to access the loft will encroach on the floor below. Phil's budget tip: If there's no money for large projects, make better use of your space. Re-organise rooms, knock down internal walls to create a better flow between rooms, and make practical improvements, perhaps by installing a downstairs toilet in an under-stairs space. Kitchen magic "Branded kitchens go in and out of fashion, so be careful what you choose," he warns. "You don't want buyers dating your kitchen by the colour or style of the doors, so opt for classic designs and easy-on-the-eye colours." And, as the fashion is for a kitchen to be the multi-functional 'heart of the home', he believes it doesn't make sense to stint on appliances, worktops and tiles. He says the majority of people spend around £7,000 on a kitchen, and agents estimate it can add around 5% to the value of a property. "A good kitchen does sell a house faster. Estate agents tell me that women buyers put the kitchen at the top of the property wish list. But getting the layout right is crucial, so concentrate on putting appliances in the right place and having properly planned storage space." Phil's budget tip: If a revamp is out of the question, simply change doors on units, add new handles and perhaps a new worktop. Employ a carpenter for a quality finish. Update light switches, replace worn flooring with tiles or stone, and de-clutter surfaces. Bathrooms "A bathroom is a job most people don't want to do themselves, so it's always a relief to see that it's done when you're viewing a house," says Phil. "Unless you're a Seventies aficionado, ripping out that avocado suite and wildly colourful tiles might be advisable!" A skilfully revamped bathroom can add up to 10% to the value of your home, according to estate agents. Phil estimates the cost of replacing an average bathroom as £1,000-£4,000. He suggests taking inspiration from hotel bathrooms and adapting some of their stylish ideas such as a bath with taps in the middle instead of one end, or double basins. Use large tiles in a cramped bathroom to give an illusion of more space, and under-floor heating to free up the walls. Phil's budget tip: "You can really add value if you splash out on quality tiles, lighting and cabinets. Adding big mirrors will also make a small bathroom appear bigger," he says. Even spending a small amount, from £500 upwards, can add at least 3% to the value of a home, according to mortgage lender, GE money. A heated chrome towel rail, starting from around about £50, is a smart accessory. Maintain and improve "Ongoing upkeep and maintenance is crucial, as if you want to sell at a later date, few buyers will be interested in a property that looks as though it will be costly to repair and patch up," he advises. Updating a boiler, ensuring wiring is up to date, and a roof is sound are essential basics, he says, and while they may not be visually decorative, they add to a property's worth and avoid the potential of expensive remedial work. Phil's budget tip: New central heating is generally guaranteed to leave the homeowner with a profit when they sell, he believes. While it can cost between £1,000 and £3,000 to install, the value added can be as much as £5,000. But, he warns, it's wise to make sure any fixtures and fittings improvements are in line with the price bracket of the property itself. Overspending on a low cost home is a waste, under-spending on an expensive property could lower its appeal.

LEXUS is launching two voluntary recalls in Britain, affecting its IS, GS and RX models.

The problems have not been known to cause any accidents so far, the company said.

Lexus is part of the Toyota group which has been hit by massive recalls this year which hit sales.

The company said in a statement that it was working with the Vehicle and Operator Services Agency (VOSA) to contact registered owners and keepers by letter to advise them of the procedure for taking their vehicle to a Lexus centre or an official Lexus service outlet for repair work.

The first recall concerns the brake master cylinder fitted to IS, GS and RX models built between February 2003 and November 2005.

The company said: "Lexus is aware that the seal between the brake master cylinder and the brake booster may turn in its seat, causing brake fluid to leak into the brake booster.

"In the very unlikely event that this happens, the driver will be alerted to the problem by the low brake fluid warning light. The brakes will continue to function normally for a significant time — over 200 miles of regular driving. Lexus knows of no accidents caused by this issue."

The repair involves the replacement of a small seal and a check for any fluid contamination in the brake booster. If any contamination is found, the brake booster will be replaced. The job will take approximately two hours to complete, at no cost to the customer.

Approximately 15,400 UK registered vehicles are affected by this recall.

The second recall concerns the fuel pump on GS 300 models built between September 2004 and February 2006. Expansion and contraction of the fuel tank may stretch the fuel pump's electrical harness. This may lead to a break in the circuit, causing the fuel pump, and so the engine, to stop without warning.

The repair involves replacement of the fuel pump wiring harness, a job that takes about three hours. The work will be done at no cost to the customer. The recall affects 2,081 UK-registered cars.

Aston Martin — they just doesn't 'do' half measures

ASTON Martin doesn't 'do' half measures. When the company says that its products are thoroughbred sports cars it really means it. And to prove the point it has taken to occasionally racing the stuff it makes.

Far from being an extract from some glossy brochure, this is all true. Recent years have seen Aston Martin compete in the popular Nurburgring 24 hours endurance race with road registered Vantages. This is no walk in the park race, as the gruelling conditions have claimed many high profile scalps over the years. After securing a string of class victories, you can't blame Aston Martin from wanting to make a fuss.

As a way of celebrating, Aston Martin has produced a special edition V8 Vantage - the N420. This isn't the company's first effort - there was also 2007's N400. It's clear that the N420 is not a cynical attempt to cash in on racing glory. The detailed changes made to the V8 Vantage donor car are enough to make this special edition, well, special.

In true race car tradition the N420 is louder than a regular Vantage. No mean feat in itself, the 4.7-litre V8 powering the Vantage family is already a vocal participant. The N420's sports exhaust not only allows the V8 to breathe more freely but also generates a harder edged tone that befits a car with a proven racing pedigree.

That the sonic enhancement can be heard lower down the rev range is a welcome bonus. Remember, for all its leather and plush trimmings the N420 is more than capable of hitting the track and turning in respectable lap times - all you're missing is a roll cage and other safety paraphernalia.

With the N420's V8 motor unchanged from the donor Vantage, 420 horsepower remains good enough in the real world to see the wrong side of the national speed limit in no time at all. The sprint to 62mph takes a brisk 4.8 seconds and it all stops at 180mph - on a track, of course.

But the numbers only tell half the story. The subtle changes to the Vantage have resulted in a useful change in the car's character. Much of the credit for this must go to the 27kg weight reduction programme and the inclusion of Aston's Sports Pack.

The former sees carbon fibre used for the car's lightweight seats and the likes of the front aerodynamic splitter and rear diffuser. The Sports Pack is a carefully chosen bundle of revisions to the springs, dampers and anti roll bars, and it's these changes that see an immediate improvement to the car's agility. Yes, the ride is now a little firmer but the steering is more accurate and responsive. Thankfully there's still enough suspension compliance on battered B-roads to make a countryside drive fun, although it's on larger arterial roads where the N420 shines.

Simply put the N420 is an engaging and intoxicating experience. You sit low down in those figure-hugging carbon seats, and the N420's compact size ensures a level of agility that's hard to find in the some rivals that claim to be performance cars but are really bloated Grand Tourers.

Opt for Aston's Sportshift gearbox over the standard fit six-speed manual transmission and you're another step closer to that full-on race car experience. This 'semi-auto' unit is essentially a manual 'box with the clutch action automated for your convenience and to reduce gearchange times.

The fully auto mode does a good job but taking personal charge of shifting via the column mounted paddles is the way to go. You'll need to feather the throttle to smooth the gearshifts, but getting it right is a rewarding experience. It works best with a fair few revs dialled in, and it's when you're really motoring that you fully appreciate the gearbox's advantages.

Far from being a bone-jarring experience the N420 is an impressively rounded performer, certainly in the context of a fast and focused road car. The steering's wonderfully direct feel and the car's rasping and occasionally shrieking exhaust note are just two of the many highlights. Close your eyes and the latter could have thinking you're spectating at Spa or some other classic GT-friendly circuit.

Predictably there's a modest cost premium associated with the N420 over a regular Vantage before you add the Sportshift gearbox, and only you and your bank manager will be able to make that judgment call.

That said, all that extra carbon fibre doesn't come cheap and the associated performance enhancements are genuine improvements. Viewed as a whole: the N420 is a worthwhile addition to the V8 Vantage line-up and, for someone with even a passing interest in the GT racing scene, well worth the extra outlay.

Four pairs of acro gymnasts in the medals

FOUR partnerships from Honiton Gym Club brought back medals from Bristol recently, and another narrowly missed out on a podium position.

The 10 gymnasts, all from the club's 'squad acro' group, were competing against gymnasts from the south west and Wales at the City of Bristol Invitational.

Current south west champions Megan Moore, 13, and Charlotte Bevis, nine, were on top form once again, taking first place in the grade two girls pairs event thanks to their clean routines and fun choreography.

Charlotte Drawer, 10, and Corinna

Challis, nine, who have only recently moved up to grade two were not far behind in fourth, showing great promise for the future.

In the 11-16 girls' pairs competition, Lauren Davey, 12, and Sarah Hodgkinson, 16, cemented their impressive reputation by taking the gold medal and the highest scores of the competition in both of their routines.

And — showing that Honiton Gym Club has great strength in depth — Rachel Palfrey, 16, and Georgia Rooke, 13, were hot on their heels, taking the silver medal.

Both partnerships were noted by the judges for their impressive choreographic skills.

Not to be outdone by the girls, 11-year-olds Buster Tutchter and Ashley Wallis produced a fine performance, taking gold in the grade two boys' pairs event.

They scored 25.73 — their highest score in competition to date.

All of the gymnasts train at least three times per week at Honiton Sports Centre and are coached by Emma Smith, James Reddy, Pam Burns and Helen Nayler.

Rachel and Georgia and Lauren and Sarah are now in preparation for the British Tournament, which takes place in Stoke on Trent at the end of November.

HONITON GOLF CLUB

Captain rivalry accompanies annual golfing tournament

Captain vs Vice Captain
SUNDAY was all about the uncompromising rivalry that accompanies the annual Captain versus Vice Captain team matches.

The captain, John Stabb, and his faithful vice captain, Tim Avery, chose their players from a long list of participants and then expected them to 'do or die' for the cause, a la Ryder Cup, in order to secure the much coveted victory.

This year's competition was as keenly contested as always with the result going right to the wire.

Both teams were tied at 6.5 x 6.5 with only one more match to come in.

That game went all the way to the 18th with the winning putt falling in favour of the serving captain John Stabb, leaving vice captain Tim Avery to present bottles of wine to the victorious players.

Those that had neglected to stay for this presentation will find that they have kindly donated their prizes to the forth coming Children in Need Appeal, a very thoughtful and unselfish if unknown gesture by all.

Ladies' Section

This week the ladies were supporting Children in Need with a Shotgun Start, 14 holes Stableford competition, played in 3s and 4s, two scores to count followed by a lunch.

Due to the unavoidable absence of both the lady captain and lady vice captain Jackie Seager the ladies' secretary was in charge.

The prize presentation took place with competition secretary Jennifer Pyle announcing that the four in a team winners with 61 points were Henrietta Bradshaw, Penny Blackburn, Catherine Doherty and Betty Weeden.

The three in a team winners with 56 points were Olive Pope, Val Daniels and Sue Witton.

Jennifer then announced that the collection for Children in Need had raised over £141.

AXE CLIFF GOLF CLUB

LAST Wednesday the ladies of Axe Cliff Golf Club celebrated Halloween early.

In glorious warm weather and suitably attired they played a fun competition with an A, B, C, D format.

The winning team were Liz Wheelodon (25) Margaret Brown (25) Sandra Walker (16) and Lesley Crawford (36). The competition was followed with some very delicious pumpkin soup.

Seniors' Section

The annual challenge match between the present captain's team and the past captain, Chris Walker, ended in an honourable draw of three each. Winners for the captain's side were Gilbert Cox and Mike Tomes, Clive Davie and Rob Heard and Norman Bowles and Phil Christmas.

For the past captains, winners were Brian Wilkes and Roger Wright, Malcolm Glass and Bryan Dale and Rob Grove and Don Lee.

The bottle of wine for nearest the pin at the 11th was won by Malcolm Glass for the past captains and Clive Davie for the present captains.

Two days later in glorious autumnal weather the second round of the Winter League produced some very close scores.

Two teams ended with 37 points and the winners on the inward ruling were Norman Bowles (22) and Iain Bain (13) with Chris Jowett (16) and Alan Vincent having to settle for second place.

No less than five teams returned scores of 35 points with third place on countback going to Malcolm Glass (18) and Mike Jamieson (25).

The other teams on the same score included Gilbert Cox (18) and Roger Wright (22), Rob Grove (16) and Bryan Dale (22), John Mant (18) and Jack Bannister and Bill Collier (14) and John W White (20).

Playing with Norman Bowles and Iain Bain and partnering Sid Pember, Phil Christmas scored an eagle at the 284 yard 6th, sinking his second shot for a two and scoring a handy five points.

AXMINSTER CRICKET CLUB

AXMINSTER Town Cricket Club members have the task of electing the various officials and committee members to take the club forward in 2011.

The annual meeting will take place at Cloakham Lawn on Thursday, November 4th from 7pm.

All members, young and old are asked to attend, and any prospective members would of course be very welcome.

With the large junior membership it is anticipated that the club will again be running at least three teams in the Bradleys East Devon League together with the four teams in the Devon Cricket League (DCL).

The situation with the league 4th team will be a discussion point as there were a couple of times during the 2010 season when it was difficult to raise a team.

Whether this was actually due to a lack of players or lack of liaison with players that were available is a matter the club needs to address. The club needs one or two of the 'older players' to now consider what they could do for the club in supporting the efforts of the team.

Running the four teams each and every Saturday is a problem the club has created, built out of its own success, particularly with the advancement of the juniors and recently the girls and ladies section.

The DCL is keen to see the team remain but the club needs plenty of positive support from members and supporters to ensure the club continues to provide cricket for all.

The club junior coaching programme is underway at the Axe Valley Sports Hall, primary school age girls and boys attend on Sunday evenings and under 13's Thursdays from 6pm.

Information can be obtained from Dan Murnane 07845498057. The adults and successful ladies section will commence their practice sessions early next year.

A MEMBER of the Axe Valley Runners recently took part in one of the most gruelling marathon races on earth.

Graham Newton travelled to the USA to run the Chicago marathon on Sunday, October 10th.

Originally he was supposed to have run the race with his daughter, Paula, and his son, Owen, but unfortunately Paula fell and broke her wrist the week before and was unable to run.

The family's story featured in the official Chicago Marathon magazine — Graham, Paula, and Owen all trained for the marathon on three different continents as Paula lives in South America and Owen lives in Japan.

The gruelling race went on red alert when the temperature shot up to more than 80 degrees. Of the 45,000 participants only 36,159 finished the race. Father and son finished the race, crossing the line together in five hours and 16 minutes finishing in joint 26,339th.

Three Axe Valley Runners members took on the challenge of the Exmoor Stagger on Sunday, October 24th - a 15 mile route from Minehead up to Dunkery Beacon and back to Minehead.

The weather was beautiful and the scenery was apparently beautiful too but our runners were too tired to take it all in.

The first Axe Valley Runner home was Eleanor Wood in two hours 42minutes.

Geoff Woodward and Steve Reynolds ran most of the course together holding hands until the last stages of the race — another hill to climb on the way down.

Steve ran out of steam and started walking but Geoff took his chance and stormed home in a time of two hours and 53minutes with Steve chugging in a bit later taking two hours and 59minutes.

Many thanks to Minehead Running club for putting on such a slick event.

On Sunday morning, October 24th Luke Reed travelled to Wimborne for his last Triathlon of the Father and son take on tough USA marathon season.

This Triathlon had a twist, it was in reverse order. The format was a three mile run, 10 mile bike ride and 250 metre swim.

Luke treated the run as a running race, going out very hard, coming into transition in second place with a time of 19minutes and 59seconds. He suffered slightly on the bike because of his running efforts but managed to dig deep and come into transition still holding second with a time of 28 minutes and 33 seconds, the third fastest bike time of the day.

Then the final part was a 250m pool swim which was completed in four minutes and 32 seconds, giving him an overall time of 53 minutes and four seconds and second place overall.

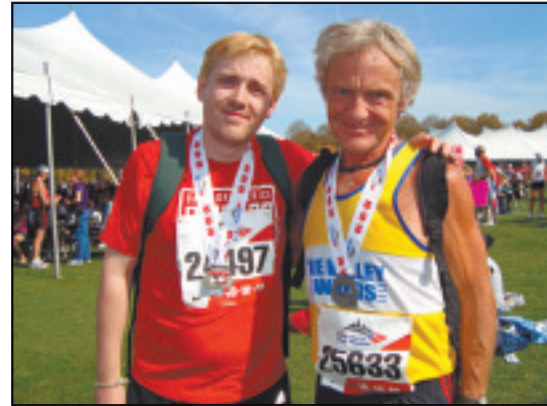

A superb finish to a great Triathlon season for Luke.

Last Wednesday, October 20th, saw the first of the winter's Darktime Race Series of low-key, nocturnal, off-road, 4ish-milers in various places around Seaton.

This month's race started from Beer Head car park and went over Southdown Common to Branscombe Mouth and back along the beach.

Alex Todd claimed that he'd take it easy due to his "delicate condition" but still went sprinting off and won by a long way in about 27 minutes.

Second was James Jackson on 29 minutes and six seconds and third was Garry Perratt on 29 minutes and 37 seconds, fourth was Sidmouth's Ben

Chesters on 33 minutes and 40 seconds, fifth was Richard Hale on 34 minutes and 40 seconds and sixth was Phil on about 37 mins. Seventh place went to Chris Keeffe finishing some time later.

AXMINSTER INDOOR BOWLS

THE men's Over 60s side started its league season in great style with an emphatic victory over Budleigh (101-60), winning on all four rinks.

The best home rink was Bob Sherborne, Peter Eagles, Ken Hickman, and George Stockley (32-10) and away David Harris, Dave Boyland, Eric Skeemer, and John Gough (24-15).

In the mixed friendlies the team shared the spoils in four closely contested games.

It started with a home win over Ottery (62-52) with a top rink of John Ellis, Ann Clayton, David Harris, and Bob Sherborne (30-8).

Next was a loss at Sidmouth (57-66) with Brenda Edwards, Pam Clark, David Harris, and Derek Eldridge playing well (25-17), before winning on both rinks at Budleigh (56-33) with Ann Clayton, Jean Kesterton, Frank Lintott, and Bob Sherborne in good form (30-14).

Finally, the team lost at home to a very strong Nomads side (44-76), losing on all three rinks but Joan Quick, Margaret Crompton, David Harris, and Sheila Martin came close, losing by just three shots.

HONITON JUNIOR RUGBY

U7-8s
HONITON U7-8s made the short trip to Sidmouth and fielded two teams against four Sidmouth sides in a rain soaked round robin tournament.

All the matches were closely fought affairs with the Honiton players showing some much improved team work and defence throughout the matches.

Try scorers for Honiton on the day were Sam Steel, Kade Bralsford and Joe Evens. Will Leonard and Toby Gleed also scored their first tries for the club, with Toby finishing off an excellent length of the pitch move after some great tagging by Osian Owen and Sam Steel forced a turnover.

Sam reacted quickest to the knock on, off loading the ball quickly to Charlie Sheppard who's powerful run through the Sidmouth defence and great pass allowed Toby to side step the last man for the try of the day.

U9s
Honiton had a good turnout for the game with 11 players which meant we had the rare opportunity to sub as required, which was needed this time due to the great tackles of the Sidmouth players.

Honiton played well but lacked team support which lead to a 5-1 win to Sidmouth in the first game and a 8-0 win to Sidmouth in the second game.

Ben Deam worked well as Captain with Lewis Gleed being named as Man of the Match due to his all round sportsmanship and for scoring the only try of the game.

U10s
Honiton battled hard but found it hard to break through a strong Sidmouth defence on a narrow pitch. There were good performances from Guy Maynard and Toby Mandrupson. Man of the Match went to Jacob Wright for his consistent high rate of tackles and Honiton's only try scorer.

U11s
Honiton travelled to Sidmouth on a wet and cold Sunday morning. Sidmouth made some great tackles and runs and all their hard work paid off as they went in 0-0 at half time. They came out with the same determination in the second half and put together some great passing moves. They found themselves inches from the try line, but were unable to take advantage.

Unfortunately, against the run of play Honiton paid the price for a couple of missed tackles and Sidmouth scored the only try of the match.

However, Honiton continued to pile on the pressure until the final whistle and played some great rugby.

Man of the match went to Harry Todd for his outstanding coverage of the entire pitch throughout the game. Congratulations to the whole team for a fantastic display of rugby.

Feniton Reserves 2

ROBERT Adkin bagged a hat-trick when Beer Reserves won 5-2 at their Feniton counterparts.

Justin Adkin and Jason Webber also scored but manager Ross Moughton named centre forward Callum Gribble as his man of the match, saying: "He was everywhere."

The manager also said: "Feniton weren't bad and it was nice to get a win, and I'm pleased with the team effort."

Both teams started the day on three points but Beer made their intentions clear early on.

The visitors were 3-0 up at the break but a John Phillips strike gave the hosts a bit of hope.

But Beer went 4-2 up before the hosts scored their second through Jamie Easterbrook.

They never got any closer, though, and Beer added a fifth before the final whistle went.

Feniton linesman Pete Dyer said: "It was a fair result, Beer deserved to win."

PERRY STREET LEAGUE ROUND-UP

Missed pen for Farway

PREMIER sides Farway and Lyme Regis contrived to miss a penalty each at 0-0.

Farway got the first one, but Matt Williams was off target from the spot. At the other end, Farway keeper Phil Woodley kept his side level by saving Lyme's spot kick.

The deadlock was eventually broken towards the end of the first half when the visitors took the lead.

Farway manager Andy Bailey summed up the first half by saying: "We defended well but they deserved the lead."

Lyme doubled their lead 10 minutes or so after the restart, and added another two to make it 4-0 before the home side pulled one back through Andy Dymond.

There were no more goals and Lyme recorded a 4-1 victory.

Farway manager Bailey was impressed by the visitors and said he had no complaints about the result.

Perry Street came from behind to take all three points at stake when they entertained Combe St Nicholas Reserves in the top flight.

The two sides had only managed two points between them so far, with Combe being bottom of the table and Perry Street second bottom.

Combe took an early lead after the home defence failed to clear the ball.

But Perry Street equalised from the spot through Chris Warry around the half hour mark.

Perry Street scored again just before the break when Ben Stephens turned before placing the ball in the top corner.

There were no goals in the second half, so Perry Street won the game 2-1.

Home manager Dave Ellis said: "It was always going to be a tight game as we both struggle for points."

He played Ben Stephens and Jamie Roberts together up front for the first time and was very pleased with the outcome, praising both players.

Millwey Rise remains unbeaten in division one after hammering Thorncombe 7-0 at home.

The home side's display was described as a "good all-round performance" by player Paul O'reba, who also said that Steve O'Brien had a good game in goal.

The Millwey goals were scored by Mark Jenkins (2), Adam Whitehouse (2), Sam Dibling, Danny Larcombe and Nathan Womersley.

Hawkchurch won 4-1 at home to Pymore in division two, but had to work really hard.

Manager Nigel Harding said his side was put under real pressure at times and added: "It wasn't a comfortable 4-1 win, we had to work really hard."

Glenn Harding showed the way by making it 1-0, and Dan Morley also struck before the break to make it 2-0. But Pymore enjoyed a lot of possession in the first half and also missed a penalty.

A Glenn Harding effort from outside the box made it 3-0 and the home side killed off the game when Leo McGuire extended the lead to 4-0. Pymore scored a consolation goal towards the end of the game.

Millwey Rise Reserves travelled to play Luso in a third division fixture.

It wasn't a very good day for Millwey's second string as the home side won 5-1.

Keith Forsey was on target for the visitors.

Hawkchurch Reserves had a fruitful trip to Thorncombe Reserves, winning the division four fixture 4-2.

Ben McCaffrey gave Hawkchurch the lead, but the home side levelled in the first half.

Hawkchurch scored three on the trot after the restart through Dave Mayo and a double by Jack Larcombe.

Visiting manager Greg Harding said that midfielder Simon Herrod gave an impressive display.

DEVON & EXETER LEAGUE ROUND-UP

SEATON Town stepped into second place once again after their 2-1 win against a battling Newtown.

Alex Wheatley and Bradley Groves had the Seaton goals before Josh French then conceded an own goal.

Beer Albion almost let Alphonso off the hook before capturing a 4-2 victory.

James Melville scored twice early in the game, the Alphas scored either side of half time, but Beer regained their momentum and added further goals from Ollie Morgan and Melville for his hat-trick.

Barnstaple Town grabbed a knap hand without reply at Honiton Town, and Tipton St John beat Feniton 3-0 with Adrian Small, Steve Flack and Jamie Connett scoring.

The derby was the first time the two clubs had met in the League for 22 years.

Chagford celebrated a 3-2 win at Witheridge and are getting up speed and it was a first defeat for the mid Devon side. Bow AAC were 1-0 winners at home to the University with Mark Leach getting the only goal. Beacon Knights are back as leaders of Division Two after their narrow 1-0 victory against Clyst Valley. Westex Rovers dropped points with a 2-2 draw against Upwomon Athletic, Brett Andrews and Paul Walker scored for Upwomon with Kye Jones and Jimmy Moore on target for the homeside.

Countess Wear Dynamos produced the big upset in Division Three when they won 2-0 at Chard Town.

Paul Gresham and Julian Dunstan scored the two goals. Leaders Pinhoe were checked by a 1-1 draw at Upottery.

SOUTH WEST PENINSULA — OTTERY ST MARY FOOTBALL CLUB

University of Exeter 2
Ottery St Mary 0

OTTERY St Mary had a day to forget when visiting University of Exeter.

Ottery manager Dane Bunney said his side was lucky not to concede in the first half when the hosts hit the woodwork and had a few goals disallowed.

It was goalless at the break and Bunney told his men the importance of defending crosses.

But the home side took the lead after the restart through Tom Watson when Ottery failed to deal with a cross.

The cross was delivered by Simon Boxhall and Watson connected with his head at the far post.

Ottery did apply pressure when searching for the equaliser but Watson struck again with six minutes remaining after a university counter-attack to make it 2-0 and kill off the contest.

The goal came about when Watson received a through ball from Sam Taylor and fired into the net.

Bunney said: "It was 0-0 at the break and we rode our luck. If it had been 2-0 at the break I would have had no complaints.

"We talked about defending crosses at half-time, and they scored from one. It was a totally fair result. We got what we deserved, nothing."

Flamingos 41 Bo-Peeps 15
Keeley's Angels 46 Uplow 18

WITH Wasps once again without a fixture it was an opportunity for both Flamingos and Keeley's Angels to increase their points lead at the top if they could defeat Bo-Peeps and Uplowman respectively.

With Sarah Clarke in great defensive form for Flamingos the Bo-Peeps attack found it very difficult and although Debbie Wheeler worked hard for the Peeps they found the going tough and it was Flamingos who retained the top spot with a comfortable 41-15 win leaving the Peeps just one place off the bottom. Angels moved above Wasps into second place thanks to their fine win over Uplowman, for whom Viv Grant turned in another sparkling match.

Uplowman were no match for Keeley's Angels though who powered to a 46-18 win with another fine performance from Kirsty Wackley being their driving force.

This win placed them second, four points behind Flamingos with a game in hand, with Wasps one point further back but with two games in hand over the leaders.

It was another full week of fixtures in Division Two, but with all the games following the form book there were no changes in position for any of the teams.

The result at the end of the evening was a gap opening up between the top four sides and those in the bottom four.

League leaders Hi Q met CMC Birds, who are scoring more goals this season than in their previous outings thanks in part to Catherine Phillips at GA.

Hi Q started strongly and were 13-2 ahead at quarter time.

They continued to outscore CMC but the Birds closed

SW Peninsula League Division 1 East
Axminster Town FC 0
Exmouth 6

AXMINSTER'S hard work was undone during a few crazy minutes just before and after the interval.

The Tigers had played a fine first half against fellow strugglers Exmouth and looked set to enjoy the half-time break on level terms at 0-0.

But Exmouth struck as the clock reached 45 minutes to take a crucial lead.

The visitors were quick off the mark following the restart and held a 3-0 lead after 48 minutes of play.

Axminster had started the game well, with Seward having some pacy runs down the wing.

The first half was typical end-to-end football but both sides lacked sharpness in front of goal.

Exmouth came close during a few goalmouth scrambles and Axminster keeper Higgs made a fine one-on-one save in the 38th minute.

In fact, the Exmouth attacker was so impressed by the save that he immediately congratulated the Axminster custodian.

The game was effectively over as a contest after Exmouth's third, and the visitors scored another three to emerge as 6-0 victors.

Axminster manager James Benett said the goals quickly conceded after the break were disappointing from a defensive point of view.

He did find some positives, though, praising Terry Emmett's "excellent" workrate and hold-up play.

Keeper Higgs was also praised for pulling off some fine saves.
